5

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for reducing power saturation in a photodetector is provided. The photodetector includes a plurality of parallel absorption channels that receive and split incident light into plural segments. The parallel absorption channels operate as multi mode interference couplers.

20